PhD candidate (Agency of interactive space in shaping users' behaviour and space perception through ANT), teaching assistant and instructor in the University of Queensland.

Currently focusing on agency of interactive space in shaping users behaviour and space perception through actor-network theory. My research interests include spatial agency, interaction design, architecture, HCI, behavioural design and spatial means of communication. I'm using Actor-network theory as a tool to understand and analyse communication between users and space on individual and social scale.
